

Dianne Ould – Coach, Trainer, and Equestrian Specialist

With over 40 years of experience in equestrian coaching and horse training., I successfully ran a professional agistment and training centre, specialising in the preparation and training of thoroughbreds and standardbreds for racing. Myr expertise extended to the breaking in of both racehorses and young horses, as well as the preparation of yearlings for sale.

My coaching career began when I started up a riding school and then went on to be Chief Coach at Kelmscott Pony Club, where I was for 6 years, and have since dedicated more than 12 years in the same role at Peel Pony Club. Throughout my coaching journey, I have worked with riders of all ages, cultivating a passion for training both horses and riders to reach their fullest potential.

Known for my patient and empathetic approach, I specialise in working with nervous riders, ensuring that they progress at a pace that builds their confidence and skill. I will never ask a rider to do something they aren't ready for, prioritising safety and emotional well-being while fostering a positive and supportive learning environment.

I am particularly skilled in working with off-the-track thoroughbreds, helping them transition into new careers. Myr coaching also focuses on team riding, flatwork, show jumping, and cross-country disciplines, with a deep commitment to fostering strong, harmonious relationships between horse and rider.

My own riding competitively, always took second place to my training and coaching but when I did make time, competed successfully in eventing/Show Jumping and Dressage, realising very early in the piece that flatwork was so important to be successful in any discipline.

In addition to my coaching, I am an accredited Show Jumping Course Designer and Judge, a Dressage Judge, and a Hickstead Inspector, so have a very diverse roll in the equestrian world.
